INCENDIARY FIRE

An Attempt to Burn the Fields of Buena Vista Park.

On Sunday night last a fire broke out in the dry grass on the northern boundary line of Mrs. R. C. Johnson's Buena Vista property, about a thousand yards from the residence of H. C. Manuel.

At that time a daughter of Mr. Manuel's, it being a bright moonlight night, observed a man on horseback dismount and lighting two matches deliberately set fire to the dry grass on the inside of Mrs. Johnson's fence. The man, whom she could not recognize, as soon as he saw that the grass was ignited remounted his horse and rode rapidly away. As the flames leaped up id the air Mr. Manuel, who had retired for the night, was aroused by his daughter and hastily dressing ran to the residence of his neighbor Wm. Trudgen, and in turn aroused him.

Securing a couple of grain sacks Messrs. Manuel and Trudgen hastened to the field and after working for some time succeeded in putting the fire out after it had burned over about a quarter of an acre. Had the fire succeeded in gaining much headway great damage would have resulted. What motive the scoundrel could have had in setting fire to the generous Mrs. Johnson's property it is hard to determine, as the lady is not known to have an enemy in the world.

A Pleasant Gathering.

The commodious residence of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. McGill on Broadway was the scene of a highly enjoyable social on last Tuesday evening. The lovely moonlight night tended to bring many there. Fully one hundred people had gathered by 9 o'clock and all seemed bent on having a good time. As soon as every one was seated the fine programme which had been prepared was presented, and received with applause. At its conclusion other festivities such as games singing and social converse were indulged in. Lemonade, coffee, cakes and sandwiches were the refreshments served to the assembled guests. This social, which was given for benefit of the M. E. Church, was in every way a success.

Another Field Fire.

Another field fire was started on S. A. Ringstrom's stock farm south of town, last Wednesday, by a spark from an engine on the Southern Pacific road. The flames were extinguished after a large number of acres of pasture land had been burned over. This makes the third fire started on the above ranch this season by sparks from passing locomotives.

Probably Fatal Accident.

Joseph Hinkston, brother of Green Hinkston of Lakeville, while driving a two-horse team across a bridge on the old adobe road between that place and Petaluma, Monday evening, ran off the structure, and man, horses, and wagon were precipitated to the dry bed of the creek below. The wagon fell upon Hinkston, causing injuries that may prove fatal. The accident was caused by the horses' suying.

Many pretty toilets were worn by the ladies while the gentlemen looked their best, and each and every one entered into the pleasures of dancing with that old time polka which characterized the social hops at the Union a few years ago. The hall was neatly decorated and excellent music discoursed sweet strains until 11 o'clock when the dining room was thrown open to the invited guests. The tables were laden with the choicest edibles and the supper was pronounced one of the best that has been served in Sonoma for a long time. After supper dancing was resumed and continued until 3 o'clock. Every one present was loud in their praise of Mr. Zeller as an entertainer.

A very quiet wedding took place last Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock in the vestry of St. Francis' Church. On Thursday morning the fire took a fresh start and there is no telling what the ultimate damage may be.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1891.

The Broadway man.
The Broadway man, known as a street hawk, with moving drays and wagons, with pavement marks with unbroken lines of men, and that are shut in on either side by the tall buildings. It is a place where no one strolls, and where a man can easily swing his cane as a woman could wear a train. Pedestrians do not walk steadily forward here or in a straight line, but dodge in and out like runners on a football field. They all seem to be trying to reach the bank to have a check cashed before 3 o'clock. The man who stops to speak to a friend or to gaze into a shop window is jostled and pushed and shouldered to one side. Every one seems to be trying to catch up to the man just in front of him, and every one has something to do, and something on his mind to think of, too, if his face tells anything.

So intent are they on their errands that they would not recognize their own wives if they passed them by. This is a spot where the thermometer marks fever heat. It is the great fighting ground of the city, where the battle of business goes on from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 in the afternoon, at which time the work flags a little and grows less and less hurried until 5, when the armies declare an armistice for the day, and march off up town to plan a fresh campaign for the morrow.

The armies begin to arrive before 8, and gather from every point of the compass. The ferryboats land them by thousands and hurry back across the river for thousands more; the elevated roads marshal them from far up town, gathering them by companies at each station, where they are unloaded and scattered over the business districts in regiments. They come over the Brooklyn bridge by tens of thousands in one long, endless procession, and cross the City Hall park at a quick step. It is one of the most impressive sights the city has to offer.—Scribner's.

How Aerated Water is Produced.

In the neighborhood of the extinct Eifel volcano, near the Rhine, in Germany, are found springs of mineral waters which give off large volumes of natural carbonic acid gas. This natural gas becomes thoroughly purified in passing up through some two or three hundred feet of water, which of course means a considerable pressure upon the gas. This gas, being fully collected on the surface, is subjected by means of pumps to the pressure of five or six atmospheres per square inch, condensing it into a clear transparent liquid, which is forthwith stored in water-tight wrought-iron cylinders of special construction and exceptional strength.

The manufacture of aerated waters is now readily carried on by means of these tubes, which are easily transported in a manner at once simple, rapid and inexpensive, no machinery whatever being required. The apparatus consists simply of a closed copper vessel of any required size, nearly filled with ordinary pure water and connected with a tube of compressed gas.

On turning a tap on the table the liberated gas rushes under high pressure into the copper vessel, becomes thoroughly incorporated with the water, and produces forthwith the aerated mineral water which is so largely consumed and so justly appreciated at the present day. The aerated water can now be drawn off for immediate consumption or bottled for future use. Mineral water thus produced is stated to be entirely free from any flavor of chemicals sometimes discernible in that which has been prepared from artificial carbonic acid gas.—Chamberg Journal.

Once Told Often.

A recent German paper tells the story of an elderly man who had for a wife one of those trying persons who, according to their own ideas, are always in the right, and who make it a point of conscience to prove every one else in the wrong.

The poor man was never allowed to make any statement without having it instantly disputed by his accurate but irritating spouse. She had acquired such a habit of correcting and contradicting him that, according to the story, she one day made a mistake which gave her suffering husband a chance to laugh at her.

"Do you remember, my dear," he said in a retrospective mood, "the letter case embroidered with pearl beads that you made for me with your own hands, when we became engaged? It was worn out years ago, but I can still see it very plainly. On one side there was embroidered a beautiful butterfly, and—"

"The butterfly was on the other side!" interrupted his wife, in her most dejected tone.

And she always complained that Mr. Underfield "was fond of telling stories without any point," whenever he referred to this conversation afterward.

Weighting Machines.

Weighting machines and scales of various kind were in use 1800 B. C. for it is said that Abraham, at that time "weighed out" 400 shekels of silver, current money, with the merchant to Ephron the Hittite, as payment for a piece of land, including the cave and all the standing timber "in the field and in the fence." This is said to be the earliest transfer of land of which any record survives, and that the payment was made in the presence of witnesses.

The original form of the weighing scale was probably a bar suspended from the middle, with a lead or shell suspended from each end, one to contain the weight, the other to contain the matter to be weighed. The steelyard was probably so called from the material of which it was made and from its former length. It is also known as the Roman balance, and is of great antiquity.—St. Louis Republic.

A Matter of Necessity.

"He can't help himself, ma'am. When he has paid my bill he has to reduce his living."—Harper's Bazar.

"German Syrup"
The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.

The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, looses them, kills them, expels them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well.
